MARKET UPDATE

Market Overview

Philippine fixed income remained under pressure in May, as persistent inflation concerns and aggressive rate hike expectations kept yields elevated across the curve. Headline inflation eased slightly to 6.8% in May from the three-year high of 7.2% in April, helped by a moderation in transport costs as fuel price rollbacks took effect – though the print still defied market expectations of a further increase to 7.5%. The year-to-date average climbed to 4.5%, still above the government's 2–4% target range. Bond markets found little relief: the 10-year yield rose further to 7.62%, while secondary market yields surged an average of 34 basis points in a single week mid-month as stronger-than-expected US inflation reinforced expectations of a prolonged global high-rate environment. T-bond auctions continued to be partially awarded as investors demanded higher returns amid geopolitical uncertainty.

Outlook

The BSP's Monetary Board meets on June 18, and markets are widely pricing in another rate hike. The BSP Governor left the door open to an off-cycle hike, prompting expectations that long-tenor yields could breach 8%. The peso remains under pressure near historic lows, adding to imported inflation concerns and limiting the BSP's ability to pause tightening. We maintain our short-duration defensive posture and continue to favor T-bills and short-tenor government securities. Any meaningful de-escalation in the Middle East conflict that brings oil prices lower would be the primary catalyst for a bond market relief rally.
